ABOUT CHALET FAWN

A Place Where Nature and Soul Meet – nestled at the edge of a quiet hamlet near the magical Lake Lauenen, this chalet embodies the essence of alpine serenity. Overlooking the wide-open moor and framed by meadows and old trees, it lies in one of the most peaceful and authentic settings the valley has to offer. From the terrace, your gaze stretches across the valley to the Wildhorn (3,247 m), the Hahnenstätt-horn (2,834 m) and the Niesenhorn (2,776 m) – a majestic panorama that captures the pure beauty and vastness of the Bernese Alps.

Built with exceptional craftsmanship and a deep understanding of both structure and soul, the house reveals from the very first moment that its creator mastered both. Every detail – the materials, the layout, the proportions – has been conceived with care and intelligence. The result is a timeless home that feels grounded yet deeply comforting. Here, nature is not just a view but a constant presence: the rustling of leaves, the scent of pine, the ever-changing light – all blending harmoniously with the interior spaces.

Now, this special place awaits its next chapter. It will attract many admirers, but only one family will be able to call it their own – those who understand that beauty and wilderness belong together, and who share the quiet honesty and warmth of the people of this valley.
